The terms of the SCIC-NRT apply mutatis mutandis to trains that run overnight but have seated coaches ("day coaches") only.

The introduction of this tariff, any amendments and additions to it, and any cancellation of it shall be made public by the RUs in the manner prescribed for them.

Terms that apply to both sleeping cars and couchette coaches are printed over the entire width of the page.

Terms that apply to sleeping cars only are printed on the left side of the page.	Terms that apply to couchette coaches only are printed on the right side of the page.

Terms that apply to the seated coaches of night trains are printed in the centre of the page below the terms for sleeping cars and couchette coaches.

- 2 suspended

Participating and affiliated RUs

- 3 Participating RUs are those who operate night trains services. Affiliated RUs are those on whose operate neither sleeping nor couchette cars travel, but which sell services on behalf of participating RUs.

Basis in transport law

- 4 Unless specified otherwise below, the legal basis for transport in accordance with this tariff is the GCC-CIV/PRR, the terms of the Special Conditions of International Carriage for Non-integrated-Reservation Tickets (SCIC-NRT) and the terms of the Special Conditions of International Carriage for Integrated Reservation Tickets (SCIC-IRT).

Scope of validity

- 5 This tariff shall apply to all RUs that are parties to the SCIC-NRT and SCIC-IRT, with regard to the use of seats/berths in sleeping cars and couchette coaches running on routes of at least two RUs.

The tariff shall also apply if an RU issues reservation tickets for the domestic routes of another RU or for a third-party RU's coach that is running on the first RU's domestic routes.

Section A INDIVIDUAL PASSENGERS

Publishing of coach service

- 6 Trains that run with sleeping cars and/or couchette coaches are published in the timetable of the RUs on whose territory they run. The taking up and setting down of passengers may be limited during the night.
After the last station stop from which reservations can be purchased, no berths or couchettes shall be allocated to passengers who do not have reservation tickets unless there are compartments that have unoccupied berths or couchettes.

For couchette-coach services, the reservation lists and/or timetables generally indicate the night journey, during which the couchettes are to be used as beds.

Berth classes and supplements

- 7 Depending on the coach type used, passengers can choose among

| the berth classes: compartment with four beds (Quadruple); compartment with three beds (Triple); compartment with two beds (Double); compartment with one bed (Single). If the compartments are equipped with showers and/or toilets, they are known as Deluxe/Premium compartments. | Couchette compartments may have three, four, five or six seats/berths each. The couchette supplement shall be charged per couchette and night journey, even if only part of the journey is used. The couchette supplements may be found in the section D. |
- 8 For trains where ticket and supplement is not issued in one ticket (NRT ticket + supplementary ticket) passengers being transported for a reduced fare or for free shall also pay a full supplement. For the use of certain sleeping cars, an admission fee is charged for passengers who are exempt from paying the berth supplement. The admission fee is specified in the section E. If no admission fee is specified, 10% of the berth supplement shall be charged.

The RUs shall be entitled to use bilateral and multilateral agreements to specify couchette and berth supplements that deviate from those listed in the section on couchette and berth supplements. One of the participating RUs must be the manager of the service. The connection must be exclusively within the territory of the RUs that are parties to the agreement.

The supplement shall always be paid when the seat/berth is ordered; a seat/berth reservation fee shall not be charged.

For travel in sleeping cars or couchette coaches on certain connections, "RIT" fares ("Rail including tours" with certain travel organisers) are charged as per the RIT guidelines.

Reservation tickets shall not be given to passengers unless the allocated seat/berth is marked on the tickets; passengers shall be given receipts for written seat/berth requests.

IRT (Global Price) tickets apply to some sleeping car and couchette-coach services. Each IRT price package includes a ticket; a berth, couchette or seat supplement (also known as a surcharge); and a reservation.

Coach classes and tickets

- 9 A reservation ticket and a ticket for the right train category and comfort class, valid for the section of the route to be spent in a sleeping or couchette car, is mandatory for using a night train.

The following rules apply:

In case of IRT (Global-Price) tickets:

All prices and supplements for using the different comfort classes and its services are included in the price of the IRT (Global-Price) ticket.

In case of NRT (tickets without integrated reservation of a seat or berth) or Railpass (RPT) tickets:

A second class NRT or RPT ticket in connection with a proper reservation for the desired comfort class is sufficient for the use of all night train comfort categories (seat, couchette, sleeping car), except for the Deluxe categories (as described in Nr.7).

For the use of a Deluxe cabin a first class NRT or RPT ticket is mandatory.

Exceptions from these general rules, valid for the trains of some carriers, are to be defined in the chapters of the special conditions of carriage for these carriers. (Section C).

If a night train service (as international train) covers the commercial field of different carriers with different rules concerning the necessity NRT or RPT ticket classes, the strictest rule enroute is applicable.

Sleeping car and couchette availability on board

- 10 IRT (global price) tickets or NRT ticket and reservation supplement for sleeping and couchette car shall be sold by various distribution channels. After the departure of the train upgrading the service level (e.g. from seat to couchette, from Triple to Single, etc.) depending on the available places and can be bought on board from the attendant.
An IRT price (global price) shall be charged on board for trains that use the global price system.

Payment for on-board sales shall be accepted in the currency specified on the sleeping or couchette car ticket or in the equivalent amount in another currency related to the OD or the route of the train.

Seat/berth ordering and allocation

- 11 The terms of the SCIC-NRT apply to the ordering and allocation of seats/berths.

The terms of the special motorail trains apply to sleeping and couchette cars on motorail trains.

For reservations that cover two nights, one sleeping car or couchette supplement shall be issued for the entire journey.

Occupation of an entire compartment

- 12 Passengers who wish to have a multiple-berth compartment to themselves shall pay the full, adult rate, as specified in the tariff, for applicable supplements and tickets for unoccupied seats/berths.

This principle shall apply even if a passenger does not show up and a TRIPLE compartment reserved for three persons travelling together remains occupied by two persons who wish to have the compartment to themselves. If it is less expensive to buy two tickets and two Double supplements, then one or three tickets, whichever applies, and the three Triple supplements must be refunded and two new tickets (if first class is desired) and two Double supplements issued.	In compartments for four persons, four couchette places shall be considered to be offered during the night journey even if six or five are available.

Changing of seats/berths ordered

- 13 An exchange shall be considered a return and new booking in accordance with section 26.

When berths and couchettes ordered on motorail trains are changed, the same conditions shall apply to passengers who are bringing a car as apply to car places in accordance with the special SCIC-NT tariff on motorail trains.

The conditions of the present tariff shall apply to passengers who are not bringing a car.

Extension of route travelled, changing of seat/berth type

- 14 If a passenger who already has a reservation ticket would like to travel further than the destination station marked on the ticket or in a higher service level then the value of the original sleeping car or couchette ticket is to be applied in full to the price in the desired sleeping or couchette car, and any difference in the supplements is to be charged subsequently.

Depending on the ticket and reservation type (IRT or NRT + supplementary ticket) the SCIC-NRT or SCIC-IRT apply to the ticket.

If a coach is cancelled and the only option is to assign a passenger to a higher service category, the passenger shall not be subsequently charged for the difference between the original price of the category and the higher price of the service category or for the difference in fare.

For missed connections confirmed by the RU and in other cases in which the RU is at fault, the terms for coach cancellations shall apply mutatis mutandis.

If the berth or couchette a passenger booked cannot be allocated to him/her due to reasons for which the RU providing the coaches is at fault (technical disruption, coach not provided), a couchette or berth in the same comfort class and/or category shall be allocated to the passenger if possible. If this is not possible, the passenger shall be either upgraded to a couchette or berth in a higher comfort class and/or category or downgraded to a couchette or berth in a lower one. In the event of an upgrade, the passenger shall not be subsequently charged for any difference in price between the reservation charges for the different comfort classes and/or categories; in the event of a downgrade, the passenger shall receive a refund for any difference.

These rules shall also apply if the passenger must be relocated to a coach of another RU on the same train.

If the service supplier allows:

- a Single compartment is used by two/three persons or
- a Double compartment is used by three persons and the second person is over ten years of age, the sleeping car attendant shall issue a new berth ticket at the full price based on the number of berths actually being used, and on the new berth ticket the attendant shall make note of the number and issuing RU of the original one. The original berth ticket shall be withdrawn.

The value of the original berth ticket on the day on which the exchange is made shall be credited towards the newly issued berth ticket, up to the latter's value.

If the value of the newly issued berth ticket is greater, the passenger shall be charged for the difference.

If the value of the newly issued berth ticket is lower, the number and class of the berths actually being used shall be noted on the receipt for the original berth ticket or on the certificate to be issued as a replacement. The passenger shall submit the ticket for a refund.

Children

- 15 The specifications of travelling of children based on section 12.3 of the SCIC-NRT or point 13/a SCIC-IRT shall apply when berths and couchettes are used by children.

The specific regulations for child fare supplement, maximum age of sharing a bed and minimum age of travelling alone can be found in section D.

Accommodation of men and women

- 16 The following shall apply for the accommodation of men and women unless the passengers book the whole compartment.

A multiple-berth sleeping car compartment may be used together by persons of the same gender only. Conditions for children are published on special pages	RUs shall not be obligated to provide separate men's or women's compartments in couchette coaches.

Seat/berth occupation and use

- 17 The right to a reserved sleeping car or couchette place shall expire if it is not asserted within the first 15 minutes after the train has left the station from which the passenger reserved the couchette or sleeping car.

RUs reserve the right in special cases to assign passengers to different berths or couchettes than the ones specified on the passengers' sleeping car or couchette tickets.

If allocated seats/berths cannot be kept available, the orderer shall be entitled to a refund of the supplement only.

- 18 The following terms shall apply to sleeping and couchette car, based on the time of day:

Sleeping and couchette car in sleeping cars shall be put into a reclining or sitting position, depending on the time of day, if technically possible.

The sleeping or couchette car attendant is instructed to set up the berths at the request of passengers, in the order in which the requests are made.

With passengers' consent, their tickets and – if the conditions imposed by the border-control authorities do not specify otherwise – travel documents may be collected and kept safe by the attendant to show at the border control.

Passengers may request that they be woken.

From 9:00 pm, passengers using a compartment shall not be entitled to object to the berths being set up if one of the passengers wishes to go to bed. In general, the berths shall be set up from 10:00 pm without a request being necessary.

Passengers shall not be entitled to object to their compartment being set into day-time position after 10:00 am, if one of the passengers using the compartment wishes. The main lighting must be switched off in the compartments set in their night-time position.

Passengers who have couchette tickets and are travelling in couchette coaches shall be entitled to use their couchettes as seats during the part of the journey before and after the night journey, if they have tickets that are valid for this part of the journey.

Hand luggage and bicycles

- 19 Hand luggage shall be accommodated in the areas provided for it, in such a way that it does not bother other passengers. Luggage may not be placed in the aisles or in neighbouring compartments.

Passengers may not travel with sledges or other larger sports articles in sleeping cars or couchette coaches. Passengers may bring skis with them in these coaches. Skis shall be accommodated so that they are out of other passengers' way as much as possible.

The RUs that own the couchette coaches shall be entitled to impose special terms on the carriage of sledges, skis and other larger sports articles in their coaches, from their stations only.

For bicycles the regulation of nr. 15 SCIC NRT or point 13. g SCIC IRT applies. Bicycles are not allowed in sleeping or couchette carriages. The folded up bicycles which can be accommodated on the available luggage space are excluded from this rule, if they do not harm, disturb or affect other passengers.

Special conditions of service operators' bicycle carrying can be found on in section D.

Smoking

- 20 Smoking shall be prohibited on all night trains.

Animal policy

- 21 Dogs and cats may be brought along in sleeping cars and couchette coaches if tickets and reservation tickets for a compartment for individual use in accordance with section 12 are purchased for the owner and any accompanying persons. The applicable fare for dogs shall also be paid. Section 16 of the SCIC-NRT shall apply to the transport free of charge of guide dogs for the blind (see special agreement) and service dogs of severely disabled persons (documentation may need to be shown on board).

An animal brought on board a night train must be supervised by its owner. The owner shall be liable for any damage caused by the animal. For necessary cleanings a fee can be raised.

Bringing other animals on board night trains is generally prohibited.

The RUs participating in night trains shall be entitled to impose other conditions generally or in specific cases. The passengers are liable to find out about these conditions on their own.

Special conditions of transporting animals can be found on in section D.

Presence in sleeping and couchette cars

- 22 Passengers who do not have reservation tickets shall be prohibited from staying in sleeping car and in couchette coaches. This rule extends to aisles and platforms.

Provisory of divergent rules of the RUs, night's rest as a rule is between 22:00 hrs in the evening and 06:00 hrs in the morning. In this time the passengers have to behave in such a way that fellow-passengers are not disturbed. In particular noise pollutions (e.g., by loudly talks, playing of music etc.) are to be avoided. The sleeping car / couchette car personnel is obliged to implement this rule. Passengers who do not obey this rule and do not change their behaviour upon request, may be expelled from the train. In such cases these passengers are not entitled for a refund of the fare or the booking fee.

Switch from couchette to sleeping car

- 23 The value of a reservation ticket that has been purchased but not used may, by mutatis mutandis application of the terms provided in section 14 concerning the changing of seats/berths ordered, be credited towards a berth supplement of a berth ticket to be purchased for the same connection. Only one couchette supplement may be credited towards each berth.

A passenger who possesses a ticket and seat/berth reservation in a cancelled couchette coach and who must move to a sleeping car shall not be made to subsequently pay for the supplement.

If a passenger wishes to have a berth in a higher berth class than the one offered, he/she must pay the difference in supplements between the two berth classes.

The couchette supplement already purchased shall be credited towards the additional purchase in both cases.

Replacement and extra coaches

- 24 For extra coaches, the supplement shall be charged based on the type of coach used.

Seat/berth cancellation

- 25 All issuing offices shall accept seat/berth cancellations if the reservation system allows it.

Refund can be asked for at the ticket issuer company. Conditions of refund can be found in Section D.

If a berth or couchette ticket applies to more than one person and only some of the seats/berths are cancelled, the following procedure shall be followed:

The remaining seats/berths shall be processed in accordance with the terms imposed by the RU in question.

	A new couchette ticket shall be issued.

Supplement refunds

26 If an unused reservation ticket is returned:

- The full amount of the supplement shall be refunded if the RU bears responsibility for the seat/berth's not being used (e.g. the sleeping or couchette car was cancelled, a connecting train was late, service was interrupted, the same seat/berth was reserved for more than one person, or there were no attendants or sheets, blankets, etc. in the couchette car) and the RU or the sleeping car or couchette-car attendant has certified this fact.

The RUs shall be entitled to impose other rules for their issuing offices for peak traffic times. Other terms and conditions apply to special global price offers. Please refer to the section on connections and special conditions.

If a special sleeping or couchette car is not cancelled seven or more days before the day of departure, no right to a refund of the supplements shall apply.
